

Workplace Performance & Wellbeing Portal

While we are all aware of the standard performance measurements in a firm there has always been a need for a solution to allow you to measure the less tangible but just as important levels of wellbeing. These levels in your firm will have a direct impact on productivity and profitability.

With the new COLNZ Performance & Wellbeing Portal you can now accurately and independently measure defined levels of wellbeing in your firm.

Based around a simple 10 minute online survey, staff will anonymously provide feedback and measures on how they feel their work colleagues and the firm are supporting them in their day to day responsibilities.

These results will form your firms own benchmarking data as well as creating part of an industry wide measurement database that will allow you to assess your own internal improvements as well as how you measure up with the industry trends.

Delivered by Perceptive, an internationally accredited research agency, all data is encrypted and anonymous to protect the respondent.

The portal is web based and branded for your firm.

The annual subscription fee is based on employee numbers:
